Cut down on the work load

Today the situation often is so that the company must call to the employees every day. If the company has many employees, it is a big burden.

By instead sending a SMS the workload will be diminished significantly. You will be able to see on the screen the status on each SMS.

The employees can use the SMS services to SMS their work notes, guard changes, service for customers and can in general be used for customer care.

There is the possibility to choose whether you want one way communication meaning only sending out information or two way communication, where you both send out and receive information.
